

Christian Conservatives Name the Most Effective Cultural Change Organizations

If you want to make a difference in American culture, you are most likely to do it in conjunction with a non-profit organization. That’s one of the striking conclusions from a national survey among Christian conservatives conducted by the American Culture & Faith Institute (ACFI). The survey asked people to identify the organizations, of any type, that they believe made the most positive impact on American society during 2016.

The survey respondents (SAGE Cons – an acronym for Spiritually Active, Governance Engaged Conservatives) overwhelmingly identified non-profit organizations as the entities making the greatest positive difference in American society last year. The survey also found that eight out of every ten of the culture-influencing organizations were Christian non-profits.

Topping the list were the American Center for Law & Justice (chosen by 35%) and the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association (named by 33%). Samaritan’s Purse (29%), American Family Association (27%), Focus on the Family (23%), and the Family Research Council (22%) were the next most recognized organizations.

20 Organizations that Had the Most Positive Cultural Change in the U.S. in 2016, According to SAGE Cons

American Center for Law & Justice (ACLJ)	35%
Billy Graham Evangelistic Association	33
Samaritan’s Purse	29
American Family Association	27
Focus on the Family	23
Family Research Council (FRC)	22
Fox News	19
Heritage Foundation	17
National Right to Life	16
Judicial Watch	14
Hillsdale College	13
Liberty Counsel	9
Tea Party	9
Wikileaks	9
Salvation Army	8
National Rifle Association (NRA)	8
Colson Center	7
Ravi Zacharias Ministries	7
Susan B. Anthony List	5
Habitat for Humanity	4

Source: American Culture & Faith Institute, RightView™ 17-1, N=700 SAGE Cons, January 2017.