NBC MOCKS THE CRUCIFIXION OF CHRIST

NBC, fresh from being forced to withdraw the anti-Christian program The Book of Daniel, has decided to continue its attack on the Christian community by presenting an episode of Will and Grace which mocks the crucifixion of Christ.

On the April 13 edition of Will and Grace, Britney Spears will appear as a Christian conservative sidekick to Sean Hayes' character, Jack, who hosts his own talk show, on the April 13 episode, the network said.

Jack's fictional network, Out TV, is bought by a Christian TV network, leading to Spears contributing a cooking segment called "Cruci-fixin's."

To further denigrate Christianity, NBC chose to air this episode the night before Good Friday.

NBC does not treat Jews, Muslims or other religions with such disrespect. Yet the network has demonstrated a deep hostility toward followers of Christ.

Please call your local NBC affiliate and ask them not to carry the April 13 episode of Will and Grace. Please be polite. Bring to the attention of local businesses which advertise on your local NBC affiliate the track record of hostility toward Christians and suggest that they might want to cease supporting the local NBC affiliate with their advertising.

Pray for the people at NBC, that their hostility toward Christ and Christians would end.
